Marconi was right, wireless is the future

We don't use expensive underground cables, green street cabinets or even telephone exchanges, our technology simply goes through the air, directly from us, to you.

The often mis-sold "fibre" broadband that comes along the old copper phone lines is history, wireless internet really is the future.

Baltic Broadband simply install a small dish (smaller than a satellite dish) onto your property then bring a small fibre optic internet line from it, directly to your desk, give you blisteringly fast speeds 100% of the time.

In addition to this, Baltic Broadband's internet comes direct from the Liverpool Internet Exchange (not imported from Manchester or London then watered down like many other providers) keeping it pure, fast and reliable.
